Southern Claims in Congress

We make the following extracts from the powerful argument delivered in the Senate by Judge Williams in opposition to the celebrated Sue Murphy claim. We hope every citizen of Oregon will read it. No one can seriously question the soundness of the views expressed on this subject by our distinguished Senator.

When the Senator from Indiana, Mr. Morton, propounded a question yesterday to the effect ought not a loyal person in the State of Alabama whose property is taken for the purposes of this war to be paid in the same way as a person in New York whose property is taken for the purposes of this war under the same circumstances, it was said that the inquiry suggested a conclusive argument in support of this claim. Now, sir, I make this answer: no property could be taken in the State of New York during the rebellion for war purposes under the same circumstances as property was taken in the State of Alabama for such purposes. The fallacy lies in the unfounded assumption that the circumstances attending property in the State of New York were like the circumstances surrounding property in the State of Alabama. Property in the State of New York was under the protection and laws of the United States, while property in the State of Alabama, in consequence of the rebellion, was not under the protection of the Constitution and laws of the United States. When, therefore, property in the State of New York was taken by the Government for the purposes of prosecuting the war, a legal liability attached to the Government to pay for that property; but when property was taken in the State of Alabama, a State at war with the Federal Government, no such legal liability attached.

Moreover, sir, it is to be remembered that the citizens of the State of New York contributed of their money in the shape of taxes and otherwise to the support of the Government in the prosecution of the war, every person in the State of New York was compelled by law to contribute to the prosecution of the war, while in the State of Alabama every citizen contributed to the rebellion against the Government. Law could take the property of citizens of New York, in the shape of taxes and otherwise to maintain the Government, while every cent which the Government obtained in the State of Alabama to support its cause was necessarily obtained by force of arms.

Some effort has been made to create a distinction between property deliberately taken and property taken in another way for the purpose of prosecuting the war. I think that is a distinction without a difference. Suppose while General Grant was investing the city of Vicksburg it was necessary to tear down houses or destroy fields of grain in order to erect his batteries, was that property deliberately taken? Suppose that during the war the Union Army were compelled to cut down forests for the purpose of supplying themselves with fuel, was that property deliberately taken? Suppose that in pursuit of or retreat from the enemy the Union Army was compelled to seize horses, wagons, boats, or other means of conveyance, was that property deliberately taken? Many railroads in the Southern States, millions of dollars' worth, I presume, of railroad property in the Southern States was destroyed by the Union armies to prevent the retreat or the pursuit of a rebel force. Was that property deliberately destroyed or not?

Sir, no distinction of that nature can be made between the different kinds of property and the circumstances under which it was taken and destroyed. Pass this bill and put it upon that ground and you open a door to the Treasury which can never be closed until the nation is brought to the verge of hopeless bankruptcy.

Millions of property were destroyed in the South by means of the emancipation proclamation. Slaves were as much property in law as horses and cattle. Suppose that a Union man whose whole property was invested in slaves joined the Union Army and was killed in battle and the emancipation proclamation left his widow and children without a cent in the world, is not that a case where property was deliberately taken by the Government, and are not the circumstances such as to appeal to our warmest sympathies? It has been by a constitutional amendment declared that no compensation shall be made to those who were slaveholders in the South for the emancipation of their slaves, and from that I argue that the people of this country have decided this question. They have decided that there is to be no distinction between loyal and disloyal people in the South as to their claims, for that constitutional amendment cuts off the claims of loyal men to their property in the same way as it destroys the claim of disloyal men to their property in the Southern States. That question has been presented to the people of this country, and they have deliberately affirmed the doctrine that there shall be no recognition of such claims by the General Government. I know a distinction can be made on moral grounds between that and other kinds of property, but there were loyal men in the South and loyal families who suffered as much in consequence of the emancipation of their slaves as Sue Murphey suffered by the destruction of her house.

It has been said, for the purpose of producing effect I suppose, that to reject this claim is to treat the petitioner and others who stand upon the same ground as public enemies. Sir, I deny the correctness of that proposition. I sympathize with the loyal people of the South who have suffered in consequence of this rebellion. I am willing to go as far as I reasonably can to repair the losses which they have sustained, but when I say to Sue Murphey that I cannot vote for her claim I simply say to her that she must abide by the calamities and misfortunes of the war that have fallen upon her as the orphans and widows, childless fathers and mothers of the North, must abide by afflictions brought upon them by the war.

That is all that is said in refusing to pay this claim. War was raging in the State of Alabama, and Sue Murphey suffered by the presence of that war like thousands of other people everywhere in every part of the Southern States, and to reject this claim is simply to affirm that she must abide by the circumstances in which this wicked and unhappy war left her and the other people of this country.

Sir, how stands the account? Compare the sacrifices and sufferings of the loyal States for the Government with the sacrifices and sufferings made by the disloyal States for the same purpose during the war. More than a million men were taken from active labor and from their usual avocations in the North and put into the field to fight the battles for the Government, while low down in the thousands may be found the number of those in the disloyal States who assisted in fighting those battles. More than two hundred thousand brave men who entered the army from the Northern States now sleep in bloody graves, who fell in fighting the battles of the country, while comparatively few sleep by their sides who enlisted in the army from the Southern States. Look at the contributions of means and money made during the existence of the war. Compare the millions and tens of millions that were poured into the public Treasury from the Northern States with the amount that was put into the public Treasury from the States arrayed in hostility to the Government. Take these amounts and strike the balance and tell me if the people in the North, the tax payers and those who fought the battles and sustained the burdens, ought now to be made to contribute their means to repair the losses which were occasioned to the Southern people by their rebellion against the Government.

Sir, if this claim is allowed and the precedent established, it will necessarily follow, in my judgment, that millions of dollars will be paid to people in the South on whose skirts is the blood of your murdered sons and brothers. I cannot, of course, form any accurate opinion as to the number, but I venture to say that thousands of men in the South contributed to create that sectional feeling of hatred which developed itself in the rebellion, and when the clash of arms came they retired and occupied a neutral position during the war. Such men can, of course, succeed in proving that they were loyal during the struggle, while they are a thousand times more responsible for the rebellion than the chivalric and daring youth who, under their education and influence, took up the musket and gallantly fought for what he supposed to be the rights of the State in which he was born.

Sir, it will be impossible [illegible] to make a legitimate argument to employ here [illegible] between the friends and the enemies of the country if you undertake to pay these claims. Taking the standard of loyalty which would be set up by my distinguished friend from the State of Kentucky, and I would ask how many of the people of the South would be excluded from a right to payment of their claims in this view of the question of loyalty. [illegible] and I suppose they believe that the secession [illegible] party of the North constituted the [illegible] of the people and that the people of the South were only fighting for their [illegible] rights. [illegible] the subject [illegible] to maintain the assertion in Congress, not perhaps an impossible thing, and to give [illegible] such a precedent as this case would establish there would be no end to the claims and nothing would put a stop to the expenditure of funds in their payment except the perfect exhaustion of the Treasury of the country.

I do not wish to do anybody any injustice, but I have supposed that the [illegible] extent this rebellion demoralized the people of a considerable portion of the people of the Southern States. I hear of Ku Klux organizations and men sympathizing with them. I hear of murders committed there in broad daylight, in the face of the men whose business it is to maintain the authority of the law and the offenders go "unwhipped of justice." I hear of trials there which amount to nothing but mockery. Now, sir, suppose that a person in the South, considering this war on our part was wanton and wicked, and believing that all the calamities which were brought upon the South by its prosecution were the work of tyranny, and that be is justifiable in resorting to any means to make himself even with the Government—suppose such a person should prefer a claim against the Federal Government for property destroyed, how easy would it be for his Ku Klux associates, or those who sympathize with him or those who sit upon juries and refuse to convict when the evidence shows crime in broad daylight, to prove his loyalty. How easy to establish his loyalty by the testimony of such persons. These men have not, so far as I know, been particularly scrupulous about the means which they have employed for the purpose of redressing their supposed grievances. I do not mean to make this as a general sweeping charge against the people of the South, but I say that the history of the day places a considerable portion of that people in this category. Make this case a precedent, and a cloud of claim agents will swarm around this Capitol and the Government which was strong enough to resist all the forces of the great rebellion would reel and stagger under the weight of its own rottenness.

Some effort has been made to distinguish this case from others on the ground that the Federal Army occupied the town of Decatur, in which Miss Sue Murphey lived. Does that make any difference in respect to the merits of the claim? Is it true that wherever property was taken by the Army, in or about its encampment, the Government is bound to pay, but wherever it was taken elsewhere the Government is exonerated from payment? The Army of the Union moved from point to point through the Southern States. At one point it was found to-day and there, it is said, if property was taken, the Government must pay for it; but to-morrow it moves to another point, and the position abandoned becomes rebel territory, and at the other point, if property was taken, the Government must pay. What sort of a principle is this to introduce into the adjustment of claims from the Southern States? This property was taken as a part of the military operations of the Army of the United States to conquer the State of Alabama and compel it to submit to the authority of the United States, and I say that, in my opinion, the Government is no more liable to pay for that property than it would be to pay for the grass and wheat over which the Army might march in its movements, or to pay for the wood or ground it might take or occupy in its encampment, or the structures which it might destroy upon the battle field.

Much has been said about the manner in which this property was taken. Military officers of the Government desired the site of Sue Murphey's house for a fortification, and so the property was torn down and destroyed for that purpose; and it is argued that those circumstances give the owner a right to compensation at the hands of the Government. To illustrate my idea and show the fallacy of this position, let me suppose that Miss Sue Murphey owned a house in one end of the town of Decatur and Patrick Murphey owned a house in the other end of the town, coming to that town in the prosecution of the war the Union Army found it necessary to erect a fort upon the site of the house owned by Miss Sue Murphey, and they tear it down and put up the fort. Soon after, a party of the enemy makes its appearance and protects itself behind the house of Patrick Murphy, and a ball or some missile hurled from the fort standing on the site of Sue Murphey's house at the enemy destroys the house belonging to Patrick Murphey. Now, says the distinguished Senator, the Government must pay Sue Murphey for her house, but it ought not to pay Patrick Murphey for his house. Assuming that they are both loyal citizens, one is as much entitled to the favor of the Government on that ground as the other. The property of each was destroyed by the same agency, the Government of the United States destroys the house of both parties. They are both destroyed for the purpose of prosecuting the war, and in all respects, it seems to me, that the claims of these two persons stand upon precisely the same ground. Establish this precedent, and it will be very easy to extend the range of your argument, and so we shall go on, step by step, extending the jurisdiction of Congress over these claims until the time comes when they will all be embraced and all recognized as valid against the Government.

I do not oppose this claim from any feeling of unkindness to the people of the South, or any portion of its people. I desire as much as any man can to see that section of our country restored to peace and to prosperity. I was sorry to hear it suggested that if this claim and similar claims were not allowed by Congress the loyal men of the South would cease to be the friends and become the enemies of the Government. I can hardly persuade myself that this intimation has been authorized by any considerable portion of the loyal people of that country.

Curiosities of Ice

In 1850 Mr. Farraday discovered that two pieces of ice placed in contact froze together almost instantly. Mr. Tyndall says: "One hot summer day I entered a shop on the Strand. On the window fragments of ice were lying in a basin. The tradesman gave me permission to take the pieces of ice in my hand. Holding the first piece, I attached all the other pieces in the basin to it. The thermometer was then above 60 degrees, and all the pieces were frozen together. In this way Mr. Tyndal formed a chain of ice. This experiment may be made even in hot water. Throw two pieces of ice in a pail full of almost boiling water, keep them in contact and they will freeze together despite the high temperature. Mr. Farraday made another experiment of the same sort. He threw into a vessel full of water several pieces of ice. They floated on the surface of the water. The moment the piece touched another there was an instantaneous refreezing. Attraction soon brought all the pieces in contact so that in an instant an ice chain was formed.

An ice wheel turning on a surface of ice refreezes at the point of contact during the rotation a series of cracks are heard which show the ear that successive refreezing is constantly taking place. The phenomenon of refreezing is easily explained. At the surface of a piece of ice the atoms which are no longer in equilibrium on the outside, tend to leave their neighbors as happens in [illegible] evaporation. Melting ensues. But if two pieces of ice are brought together the atoms of the surface are restored to their equilibrium, the attractive action becomes what it was, the atoms resume their relations with their neighbors and [illegible] ensues. In consequence of this property ice is endowed with a singular plasticity. A pipe and a rod [illegible] a buckle may be made of ice. It may be moulded. The schoolboy who has his hands with snow and compresses it into a ball produces the phenomenon of refreezing and turns an ice ball sufficiently hard to prove a dangerous projectile.

This explains the extraordinary rigidity of the bridges of snow which are often seen in the Alps suspended over deep crevasses. The Alpine guides cautiously walking on those snowy masses freeze the particles together and transform the snow into ice. If snow be compressed in moulds ice statuettes may be obtained. [illegible] which snow pressed in [illegible] may obtain ice bars [illegible]. Nothing would be easier than [illegible] made of moulded snow—plates, glasses, decanters, all of snow. A gentleman in Paris recently served sherry [illegible] in beakers made of snow. Snow compressed in this way does not melt so rapidly as might be thought. Ice requires a great deal of heat before it melts. A layer of ice often becomes a protection against cold. If you would prevent anything from sinking to a temperature below 32 degrees during the very severest frosts, we know you have but to wrap it in wet rags.

The process of freezing gives to the environing bodies all the heat necessary to destroy it. The water in the rags slowly forms small pieces of ice [illegible] and in the meantime disengages heat, which warms the object wrapped in the rags.

A tree wrapped in rags, or in moss saturated with water, does not freeze even when the thermometer is several degrees below the point. The slowness with which ice melts is well known. In the winter of 1740 the Czar built at St. Petersburg a magnificent palace of ice, which lasted several years. Since then cannons have been made of ice, and they have been loaded with balls and fired. They were fired ten times without bursting. It is consequently indisputable that ice melts slowly and may be turned to good account in the Polar regions. In Siberia the windows have panes of ice. The remarkable property with which particles of ice are endowed of moulding themselves into different shapes by refreezing explains how glaciers make their way through narrow gorges and expand in valleys. The ice is broken into fragments which refreeze whenever they touch.

Prof. Tyndall says: "When two pieces of ice at the melting temperature are placed in contact with each other they freeze together; and even when two pieces floating on water touch each other they freeze together. To this freezing together the term regelation has been applied. It is by pressure and regelation that glaciers are formed; the snow granulates, when powerfully squeezed together, regelate, and form a coherent mass. It is by this property that a glacier accommodates itself to the valley which it fills. We can thus out of small fragments form a sphere of ice; out of the sphere we can form a lens, of the lens a cup. The ice cups placed edge to edge freeze together and form a hollow sphere. In these cases the ice is crushed, and then regelated; but when the passage is very gradual the change is gradual, and the ice becomes like soft wax. It can be moulded into any form. Rings, vases, [illegible] can be thus made of ice; and these once produced may be turned to the following practical use: pour plaster of Paris into a vessel, place it on an object moulded in ice, then pour plaster over the ice. The plaster will 'set' around it, and the ice may be melted, and the space it occupied left. Thus in the simplest way we may obtain perfect plaster moulds, from which metal castings can be taken.

This process is much like a very old one used by sculptors to cast in bronze. They made the model in clay, coated with wax of the thickness intended for the bronze; then coated outside with clay or other molding material. When dry, the mold was heated gently and baked, the wax ran out or was expelled as gas in the baking, and the cavity was left in a proper state to receive the bronze.—Newark Journal.

HIRAM SMITH'S
Ophthalmic Panacea!

IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST WONDERFUL EYE HEALER that has yet been discovered.

It CURES the most stubborn and long standing cases of CHRONIC INFLAMMATIONS, GRANULATED LIDS, FILMS, &c., as has been sufficiently demonstrated during the few months in which it has been before the public notice. The proprietor is so fully convinced of its INFALLIBILITY that he WARRANTS A CURE OR REFUNDS THE MONEY. It can do the eyes no harm, and a trial of it is therefore without injury or expense to the patient if a cure is not effected.

It has cured cases of FIVE, SIX, NINE, FIFTEEN, and even EIGHTEEN YEARS' standing in Harrisburg, Linn county, Oregon, and its vicinity, to which the following persons will bear witness:

E. B. MOORE, NATHANIEL BELL,

New York.—Wheat quiet but steady at $2 08@$2 10 [illegible] Pork closed very firm for buyers; new mess, $31 [illegible] sellers asked $30 00. Beef steady and quiet, [illegible] changed—$9@14 50 for new plain, $14@19 50 for extra mess. Butter dull at 25@35 for Ohio. Flour, [illegible] $6 00@$11 30.

Liverpool.—Wheat, 11s 6d@11s 9d.

San Francisco.—Flour all brands unchanged. Wheat, ordinary to fair, $1 50@$1 70; fair to choice, $1 75@$1 80. Barley feed, $2 10@$2 20; brewing, $2 20@$2 30. Oats—California range from $2 10@$2 25, and Oregon from $2 25@$2 30.

Portland.—The market for all descriptions produce very quiet, with same prices, generally, as at last report. The steamer Continental carried away a full cargo of flour, oats, and a general variety of produce. The brig Brewster and the bark Almatia are now at the dock and will take cargoes of produce. These shipments are mostly on manufacturers' account, and very few lots are changing hands. The only notable change in price is in bacon and eggs for which buyers are offering less than last week.

The merchandise market remains quiet. We note a further slight advance in seconds sheetings. There have been fair sales of groceries during the week, to supply, however, only present needs. Orders from Eastern Oregon suspended for the present and sales confined to the Wallamet valley.

We subjoin the following affidavit in an injunction suit formerly pending between Mercado & Seully, plaintiffs and G. A. Plmort, defendant:

P. Sainsevain, being duly sworn says: That the article known as Sainsevain's California Wine Bitters was manufactured by Mercado & Seully, about the month of March, 1861, without the said Sainsevain Brothers having any concern in the manufacture thereof. The deponent has always known and considered said Mercado & Seully as the Sole Proprietors of the Sainsevain California Wine Bitters."

Notwithstanding the above affidavit the said P. Sainsevain is putting up a compound under the name of Sainsevain's California Wine Bitters representing it to be the same as our celebrated Bitters, which we have been manufacturing and selling in immense quantities since 1860, and also affixing a nearly similar label to that used on our genuine Wine Bitters. BE NOT DECEIVED. Send for

MERCADO'S

NATIVE CALIFORNIA WINE BITTERS,

And you will obtain the same popular beverage so favorably known since 1860. Beware of Counterfeits! Purchasers of our Wine Bitters are requested to observe the familiar old yellow label and see that the words, "MERCADO & SEULLY SAN FRANCISCO," are engraved on the Government stamp pasted over the cork of each bottle. This is the only effectual security against the counterfeit imitations.

NOTES.

Proposals must be to carry the mail with "celerity, certainty and security," using the terms of the law, and they must be guaranteed by two responsible persons, certified to as such by a postmaster or judge of a court of record.

No pay will be made for trips not performed, and for each of such omissions not satisfactorily explained three times the pay of the trip may be deducted. For arrivals so far behind time as to break connections with depending mails and not sufficiently excused, one-fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. Fines will be imposed, unless the delinquency be satisfactorily explained, for neglecting to take the mail from or into a postoffice, for suffering it to be injured, robbed, or lost, and for refusing, after demand, to convey the mail as frequently as the contractor runs, or is concerned in running vehicles on the route. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for disobeying the post office laws or the instructions of the Department. He may alter the schedule of departures and arrivals, and also order an increase of service by allowing therefor a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may also curtail or discontinue the service in whole or in part at a pro rata decrease of pay, allowing one month's extra compensation on the amount of service dispensed with. Bids should be addressed to the "Second Assistant Postmaster General," superscribed "Proposals, State of Oregon," and sent by mail.

For forms of proposal, &c., and other information, see advertisement of this date, in pamphlet form, at the principal post offices.　　ALEX W. RANDALL,

OF THE

Weekly Oregonian.

FOR 1869.

Nineteenth Volume!

Only $3.00 a Year.

By common consent, the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. It is the oldest paper in the State and its circulation and influence are greater than that of any other two papers combined. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles, it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST, but to everything of moment to the great

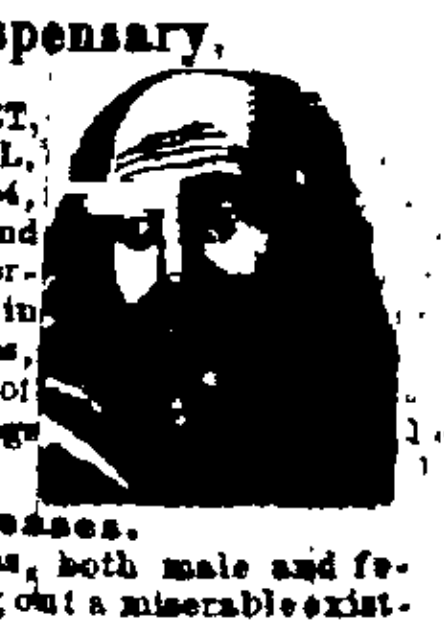
TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,



616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies, see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful, and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequently insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of his complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN.

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them, nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

He represents everything in that region of country as being in a flourishing condition. The winter has been extremely mild, and live stock of all kinds are doing well. Colonel Baker is still in command at Camp Watson, and enjoys good health as well as his entire command.

EXERCISES AT THE ACADEMY.—In addition to the usual Friday afternoon exercises at the Portland Academy, Prof. [illegible] Gatch has recently added the new feature of lyceum discussions by the pupils. These debates prove quite interesting, both to pupils and visitors, and will no doubt result in great good to all concerned. A visitor at the school yesterday afternoon gives us the following synopsis of the exercises:

First, Instrumental and vocal music by the students, after which there was a short recess. After recess, the Lyceum Society was called to order by the President, Mr. Fred. Strong.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the Secretary, Miss Minnie Couch, and approved. After which the question for debate, "Resolved, That the character of Queen Elizabeth is worthy of admiration," was announced by the Secretary. On the affirmative were Willie Upton, Miss Sallie Campbell and Harvey Henderson. Negative—Edward Deady, Miss Alta Bryant and Thomas Strong. The next thing in order was Declamation, by Masters George Upton, Charles Ladd and Miss Lillie Gleam.

Compositions by Misses Jettie Blossom, Katie Holman, Sarah Wilson, Sarah Robb and Katie Nelson. Next was instrumental music by Prof Sedlax, George Ainsworth and Willie Keller. After the discussion by the students, Messrs. Chapman and Bennett, graduates of the Academy, took a part, Mr. Chapman taking the affirmative and Mr. Bennett the negative.

The President decided in the affirmative.

After debate, by request, Judge Deady made a few remarks.

SPIRITUAL MANIFESTATIONS.—An audience of sixty or seventy people were present last evening at Cardinell's Dancing Hall, to witness the performances by Mr Wm. Funk—a spiritual medium. A committee was chosen to tie the medium and to see that there was no trickery. The usual tying and untying was done, much to the mystification of the people, but we learn from a gentleman present that the committee and everybody else were satisfied that the medium had no human assistance either in untying himself when bound or in tying (or being tied) up again when free. Mr Funk and the spiritualists say that the spirits do it, while the disbelievers are simply puzzled. If it is a trick it is an unusually good one, and if not it is still more wonderful. Mr Funk offers to submit himself to any proper experiment which disbelievers wish to try with him.

I. O. G. T.—The following list of officers of Crystal Lodge I. O. G. T., were installed Feb. 2, 1869, at Portland, Oregon: Wm Collyer, W C T; Emma Hayden, W V T; Chas Woodward, W Sec; [illegible] Fretz, W Treas'y, Wm J Harland, W F Sec; Maggie Schuyler, W A S; [illegible] Schuyler, W [illegible]; W S Dusenbery, P W C T; Joseph Kidder, W C; Anglo Salmon, W M; [illegible] Oakshett, R H S; M E. Chatterton, L H S; Viola Skinner, W A Sec; G W Volmer, Lodge Deputy; after which the Lodge proceeded to business in the cause of Temperance.

THIEVES.—During the past week several houses in the neighborhood of Madison street have been entered, and in one or two instances, robbed of valuables. On Monday night, Mr Maguire's house was thus entered. Tuesday night, a considerable amount of family clothing was stolen from a clothes line in the yard of Mr. F. M. Arnold. Thursday night an attempt was made to enter the house occupied by Mr Louis Clemin. Some of these midnight prowlers will yet go to kingdom come by a short cut, as a good many people are prepared for them.

PEAS IN BLOOM.—A resident of the northern part of the city informs us that there are peas in the garden of Mr Lewis, which are three feet high, have been growing all winter, and are now in bloom. They came from seed scattered from the vines in the fall.

PIRATES;

SAIL UNDER FALSE COLORS!!

THE BEST EVIDENCE OF THE VALUE OF AN article may be found in the fact of its having numerous imitators. Every fine poem has its parodies, every meritorious literary work is subject to plagiarisms, every successful play has been burlesqued, every honest man has his detractors, every genuine dollar has been counterfeited, and every valuable medicinal preparation has its vile imitations. The proprietors of have encountered the usual experience in this respect. Such has been the success of this sterling preparation, that all inferior articles of the kind have virtually been driven from the market. The concoctors of these beverages finding that this new Tonic has exactly met the public want, and that no further demand exists for inferior preparations, have resorted to the dishonest expedient of imitating either the name or the style of label, both of which have been duly secured by the laws of the State to the proprietors of the I. X. L. Bitters.

In justice to ourselves, as well as to the public who may be deceived by these nefarious practices, we hereby notify all parties guilty of infringement on our rights as well as those who have been buying up our old bottles in order to palm off their own nostrums as the genuine article, that they will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

For the further protection of consumers, we would state that we never sell our Bitters in bulk, but always by the case. Look for our Trade Mark on every bottle, and in ordering the article otherwise than direct from us, be sure to order Dr. Henley's Wild Grape Root I. X. L. Bitters, and do not allow yourself to be imposed upon with an inferior article.

Southern Claims.

The discussion of the Sue Murphy claim in Congress attracted very general attention throughout the country. The Republican press are united in opposing the payment of this and all kindred claims, while the Democratic press are manifesting extraordinary zeal in urging Congress to recognize the claim and pay it. Even the Democratic papers of Oregon take a lively interest in the matter, and editors who never said one word in favor of paying the just debts incurred in suppressing the rebellion, but who have continually questioned its justice and validity, and incessantly lamented the burden of taxation, now grow extremely indignant because Congress hesitates to throw open the door which would let in claims for the whole mass of property destroyed by our armies in the South, and increase the debt at once to two or three times its present sum.

Their zeal in this matter is perfectly intelligible. The more they embarrass the Government the better it is for their purposes. They would rather not have the Treasury prosperous and the financial course of the country smooth, while the ruling power is in the hands of Republicans. And they know that their purpose cannot be promoted more effectually than by accumulating debt. Every addition they make to the national indebtedness furnishes them with a fresh illustration of recklessness and misgovernment. There can be no improvement of the public credit while these additions are possible.

As a leading Eastern journal observes, it is difficult to say why any Republican Senator should lend himself to a policy so fraught with mischief and danger. The hardships and losses borne by loyal residents of the South during the rebellion were undoubtedly cruel and severe, but they were incident to the situation, and form no title to Governmental compensation. As a matter of humanity they had a right to expect succor and consideration wherever and whenever the national authority was re-established, and both were granted promptly and freely. More than this they are not justified in asking. Nor is Congress justified in entertaining propositions in their nature untenable, and which cannot be acceded to without exposing the Treasury to bankruptcy. It is not in the power of the Government to make money payments for all the sufferings and sacrifices endured, even by its friends, in the midst of a struggle which pressed hardly upon the whole country, and there is neither prudence nor equity in attempting a feat which points directly to national insolvency. These Southern claims to relief ought not to be granted if they could, and, though they were ten times stronger than they are, their settlement would be financially impossible.

There was a long controversy in the Senate to determine whether Sue Murphy was loyal or disloyal during the war, and this well illustrates the folly of opening the door to a class of claims which would seem designed to cover falsehood and fraud. Neither Congress nor the most active of its committees could hope to discriminate between the genuine and the counterfeit, and either would soon abandon the attempt. The result may be imagined. We should have an endless array of applicants, all converted by the help of perjury into suffering loyalists. The only way to prevent this wholesale knavery is to refuse to entertain any claim. It is easy to understand why a woman's case was selected for the experiment, but not so easy to comprehend the respect accorded to a pretence which appeals to the fears of those who resist it. The moral standing of a claim cannot be good whose advocates threaten the bondholders with repudiation if the Sue Murphys of the South be denied what they want. The most that can be said in support of any such claim is, that the principle on which it rests merits an intelligent decision; and when a class of politicians confound a question of this sort with the recognition of the obligations of the Government, they simply show how little their judgment should be trusted, and how indifferent they are to the honor and interest of the country. Hence when the Oregon Herald threatens that unless these claims be allowed the whole debt shall be repudiated, we know exactly what its party is driving at. They want these Southern claims to be allowed so as to increase the debt and bankrupt the country, when they would charge the whole to "Radical extravagance," and make use of the condition of affairs to secure a party triumph, and probably general repudiation.

"RECIPROCITY."—Those who clamor for a revival of the Canadian Reciprocity treaty have encountered a "circumstance" of the most uncomfortable type. The report of a special commissioner of the Treasury shows that, while the old treaty was in operation, we derived a revenue of only $75,000 annually from Canadian importations, while our exports to those provinces yielded $2,500,000 per year in customs to the Canadian government. More than that; abrogating the one-sided arrangement, our Canadian trade has actually increased, and the Treasury has collected $7,000,000 annually in duties therefrom. This is a bad show for any more "reciprocity."

THE LAST ACT OF INFAMY.—The acting President has pardoned Dr. Mudd and will soon pardon the other assassins of Mr. Lincoln. Either Andrew Johnson committed an act of the greatest atrocity when he hanged several of the assassins in 1865, or his use of the pardoning power now is a most unseemly outrage. If the first hypothesis be the true one he should go and hang himself for shame and remorse; if the last be true he should at once be impeached and removed from office. It seems to be the fatality of this man that every step he takes increases the loathing and detestation with which he is regarded by his countrymen.

THE BULK OF THE WORLD'S GOLD.—The New York Mercantile Journal, in discussing the folly of attempting to conduct the future business of the world upon the gold basis, makes the following statements:

"All the gold that exists in the United States to-day could be placed in a square box of less than fifteen feet in length, width, and depth.

"A room one hundred feet long, one hundred feet wide, and ten feet high would hold eight times the total amount of gold in the known world.

"The 'golden calf,' worshiped by the would-be statesmen of our day, who desire an accumulation of coin to the extent of $250,000,000 in our national Treasury, as a basis upon which to resume specie payments, if melted down would not fill a square box measuring nine feet each way.

"How puerile, then, to clog the wheels of finance and commerce by a blind subserviency to the ridiculous tenets of the dark ages. Coal and iron are infinitely more valuable to commerce than this boasted metal."

STATE ITEMS

The Unionist reports an interesting revival of religion among the United Brethren a few miles below Boon's Ferry, on the Willamette river.

The Salem paper tells us that, the sidewalk laid down in Salem, if in one continuous line, would measure between twenty five and thirty miles. Of this amount, none is less than six feet wide and a part is twelve feet in width.

There is a company incorporated for the construction of a waterditch in McMinnville, for milling purposes. The incorporators are W. T. Newby, J. C. Ainsworth, S. Coffin, L. Hembree, J. M. Johns, E. W. Holmes and C. M. Carter.

A company has been incorporated for the construction of a ditch in La Grande to convey water from the Grande Ronde river, at Oro Dell. It will contain about 5,000 inches, with a fall sufficient for any machinery.

The La Grande paper says: J. H. Stevens has been collecting some statistics relative to our valley, with the following result: Cattle in the county, 10,000; horses and mules, 2,000; hogs, 8,000; bushels of wheat, 30,000; oats, 20,000.

The oil mill of Salem is manufacturing about 180 gallons of linseed oil per day, and has on hand sufficient seed to run until after next harvest. All farmers desiring to sow seed the coming season will be furnished with seed on application at the mill.

The Advocate learns that a very interesting series of meetings have been held in the M. E. Church at Salem, under charge of Rev. Stratton, and that quite a number of accessions to the Church have been made from time to time, by letter and on probation.

Judge Alberson, says the La Grande Sentinel, returned from the Shasta country on Monday last, and the Judge, as well as the miners, express a belief that the next season will be a prosperous one in the mines. Considerable drifting is now going on.

The Unionist of yesterday (5th) says: We learn from a private letter shown us yesterday that Col. W. G. T'Vault, of Jacksonville is down with the small pox. Considering his great age and the irregular habits of his life, it is a grave question whether he will recover.

Rev. W. T. Chapman writes from Dayton, Feb 1st, to the Advocate: "Last night we closed the protracted meeting which commenced Jan. 14th. Twelve were added to the Church, and several others professed conversion. We received much assistance from our Presiding Elder, and also from Bros. Spaulding, Powell and Garrison."

CRIMINAL APPEALS IN FEDERAL COURTS.

[From the New York Times, Jan. 15.]

We see that Senator Trumbull has introduced a bill into the Senate to provide for the due execution of judgments of the Federal Courts in capital criminal cases. According to the synopsis of the bill which has been given, it provides that whenever a judgment of death shall be given in any United States Court, and the case "shall be carried to the Supreme Court by appeal or writ of error, in pursuance of law," the execution shall be postponed until the decision of the Supreme Court in the case, and it further provides for the execution of the decree, if the Supreme Court shall sustain the judgment.

THE "DO-SOMETHINGS" IN VIRGINIA.

[From the Chicago Tribune, Jan. 18.]

The press in Virginia is hastening to learn the lesson of Grant's election. The Richmond Dispatch says "negro suffrage is plainly inevitable, and longer opposition would be vain;" the Danville Times says "it is perfectly useless to contend any longer against negro suffrage;" and a Lynchburg correspondent writes to the Richmond Whig that he has reason to believe that "a constitution establishing universal suffrage, but liberal and free from objection in other respects, embodying no offensive provisions of disfranchisement, mixed schools, etc., would be regarded by a majority of our people as the best and readiest escape from the evils of our situation."

THE LEGAL TENDER ACTS.

[From the Chicago Republican, Jan. 16.]

Rumors at the Capital concur in representing four of the eight Supreme Justices—Grier, Davis, Swayne and Miller—as favoring a decision for the constitutionality of the Legal Tender Acts, and Messrs. Field, Clifford and Nelson against it, with Judge Chase "believed" to side with the majority. His vote the other way would divide the Court evenly and leave the present state of the question undisturbed. But an impression has become general, in quarters the best informed, that the act will be sustained by a clear majority of the Court.

THE OGEECHEE (GA.) TROUBLES.

[From the New Haven Palladium, Jan. 14.]

We hope none of our readers omitted to read Gen. Sibley's report to Gen. Meade on the Ogeechee troubles. For more than a week the Associated Press brought us dispatches representing the negroes as spreading destruction throughout the district. The Democratic press, as is its wont, made them the text for sermons on the horrors of negro suffrage. They expatiated with unction upon the fearful spectacle of the whites fleeing for their lives, leaving their women and children—the brave fellows—to the mercy of "negro savages." A United States officer went out to see what was the matter, and found the "insurgents" were armed with three muskets and a bayonet on a stick. The sheriff set off with a posse of one hundred and twenty men and bravely shot a ferocious young negro rebel, aged fourteen, in the leg, wounded two or three negroes and then the brave white men all ran away. The sheriff cautiously remained on board a railroad car during the engagement. Then the citizens formed three battalions consisting of from five to eight hundred men and commanded by generals, colonels, majors, captains, lieutenants, etc., all to put down the insurgents who were armed with three guns and a bayonet on a stick. The negroes had not thrown up any fortifications, and indeed there did not seem to be any necessity on their part for such defenses, since the chivalrous whites all ran the moment they fired on the small boy. When the United States troops appeared on the scene, tranquility was restored by the surrender of the terrible rebels, and quiet reigns in Georgia. Is it not about time for the democratic press to stop talking nonsense about negro insurrections?

GENERAL GRANT AND THE TENURE-OF-OFFICE ACT.

[From the Boston Journal, Jan. 14.]

Some of our Democratic friends are trying to make it appear that the Republicans who voted against the repeal of the tenure of office bill were actuated by lack of confidence in General Grant. An examination of the vote is sufficient to demonstrate the absurdity of the supposition. General Grant has no warmer supporters than Garfield, Delano, Shellabarger, Pomeroy, Laflin, Ames, Jenckes, Pike and others, who all voted in the negative. They do not belong to the faction commonly called extreme radicals. Most of the extreme men voted for repeal. The negative vote was larger than it would have been had the bill come from the committee in the regular way. Coming up as it did, many Republicans looked upon it as making too much haste to conciliate the coming power, and this, coupled with the objection of putting such important measures through under the whip of the previous question, caused some of the ablest and most practical men in the House to vote in the negative. Probably no one thing did more to secure the passage of the bill, than the positive statement by the Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, Mr. James F. Wilson, that the committee had agreed to such a bill, but that owing to the short session they would be unable to report it in regular order under the call of their committee. The assumption that Mr. Sumner will head the opposition to the repeal in the Senate, is also unwarranted. He has made no public statement of his views on the subject, but in private conversation has indicated that he will vote for the repeal.

IMPORTANT TO LIFE INSURERS.

[From the New York Sun, Jan. 14.]

A case of great interest to life insurers has recently been decided by the general term of the superior court of New York. A life insurance company in Maine in September, 1866, issued a policy for $10,000 upon the life of a Mr. Warner of New York, who represented at the time of his examination by the medical officer of the company, that he had no regular physician. Warner died in February, 1867, when it became known that he had availed himself of the services of one doctor for himself and family for several years, receiving prescriptions from him the month before his application for life insurance, and also after the policy had been issued. Under these circumstances the insurance company refused to pay the claim of Mr. Warner's heirs, and upon the trial of the case before the late Justice Robertson, the position of the defendants was sustained. The matter was then taken on appeal by the plaintiffs to the general term of the superior court, and the decision of the court below was affirmed.

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

DATES TO FEBRUARY 5.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—In the Senate, the credentials of the newly elected Senators, Tipton and Stewart, were presented.

Howe moved to take up the motion that the Senate reconsider the vote relating to the Central Branch Union Pacific Railroad. The motion was lost.

The Constitutional Amendment came up at the expiration of the morning hour. The pending question was Stewart's motion to substitute for the House resolution the Senate resolution, reported from the Judiciary Committee. Ferry made an elaborate speech. Morton objected to the Senate resolution on the grounds that it left it in the power of States to disfranchise for other causes than race, color or previous condition of slavery. He preferred an affirmative amendment regarding who should have the right of suffrage extended to them.

Williams offered the following amendment, on which he will speak to-morrow: Congress shall have power to abolish or modify any restrictions on the right to vote or hold office prescribed by the constitution or laws of any State.

The Senate took a recess.

In the House, Johnson and Scannell, the two recusant witnesses, were brought before the bar of the House and discharged from custody.

Woodard introduced a joint resolution, changing the name of Wyoming Territory to Umatilla. Referred.

Schenck moved that the evening session be devoted to general debate, as some desired to revise the whisky and tobacco amendments, which were not yet printed. Schenck said he desired a final action on the bill during the present Congress. The motion was agreed to.

The amendment reported by the Committee of the Whole to the Indian Appropriation bill was taken up.

Garfield moved to recommit the bill with instructions to report an additional section transferring the Indian bureau to the War Department. Ruled out of order.

Butler, of Massachusetts, stated that the bill under consideration would not pay the Indian expenditures by three millions. If the system begun by the Peace Commissioners is carried out, that plan would cost six to seven millions per annum.

Garfield denounced the Indian Bureau as thoroughly corrupt.

Winton defended the Bureau.

Several members participated in the debate.

Holbrook, Delegate from Idaho, in the course of some remarks used the following words: "Gentlemen in charge of this bill saw fit to silence him by raising points of order and making assertions he knew at the time to be unqualifiedly false."

The Speaker called him to order, and the offensive remarks were taken down.

Holbrook attempted to repeat the words, when the Speaker again interrupted him and said it would be improper for him to repeat the objec*tionable words*. The words having been taken down by the reporter, were read by the clerk, when the Speaker, in severe terms, said: "The Chair rules these words just uttered, as unparliamentary and indecorous. When any gentleman declares that a member has stated on this floor what he knew to be unqualifiedly false, he uses the most insulting language that can be uttered on the floor of a parliamentary body."

Holbrook was about to make some remark when Benjamin interrupted him and said he objected to the Delegate proceeding until he retracted what he had said.

Holbrook—"I do not propose to retract one word of what I have said!"

Mr. Speaker—"The Delegate from Idaho refuses to retract his words."

Holbrook—"Does the Chair rule?"

Mr. Speaker—"The Chair rules that the remarks of the gentleman were not only unparliamentary, but were as insulting as could be made on the floor of a parliamentary body."

Holbrook—"I desire to ask a question."

Speaker—"The Chair can yield to no debate with the gentleman."

Mr. Chandler appealed from the decision of the Chair as being contrary to previous decisions made.

Speaker—"The Chair can hold controversy with the gentleman from New York, or any other gentleman, in relation to other decisions. Any decision stands by itself on words used subject to appeal at the time."

Chandler withdrew his appeal.

Schenck offered a resolution that Holbrook, delegate from the Territory of Idaho, having uttered the following language, (quoting it,) distinctly and in the presence of the House, and refusing to retract the same, be immediately brought to the bar of the House by the Sergeant-at-Arms, and severely censured by the Speaker. Adopted without division.

The Speaker administered the censure of the House.

Holbrook then retired and the discussion was continued at some length, and finally the bill was passed.

The House took up the bill to authorize the building of a military and postal road from Washington to New York. Cook spoke in its favor. Kerr spoke against it. The morning hour expired and the bill went over and the House proceeded to the business lying on the Speaker's table.

In the Senate, the joint resolution directing the Secretary of the Interior to annul the stationery contract with Dempsey & Otolo, was passed with a slight amendment.

Several other Senate resolutions were passed, when the Senate took a recess.

In the Senate evening session a few private bills passed.

The bill to amend the act granting lands in aid of the branch Central Pacific Railroad to Port*land, Oregon, was recommitted*.

The Senate adjourned.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A Washington dispatch says the President yesterday ordered a pardon to be issued to Dr. Mudd. Efforts are being made to secure the pardon of Arnold and Spangler the only remaining prisoners confined on that charge, and there is reason to believe they will be successful, and that before the close of Johnson's term every living participant in that crime will be released.

No news is received from the eastern department. The journals of Havana have refrained the past week from publishing news from the seat of war. There appears to be an understanding not to inform the people of the situation of affairs. The Diario to-day says the revolutionary general, Arangas, has been assassinated by his companions.

Since the commencement of the epidemic there have been sixty five cases, eighteen of which have been fatal. All except four are now convalescent.

A HORRIBLE STATE SECRET.—Another terrible state secret has been unearthed from the dust of three centuries. Juana, the mother of Emperor Charles the Fifth, was the legitimate Queen of Spain; the historians say she went mad in consequence of the sudden death of her husband, Philip. But in reality, she was not mad at all, but was kept cruelly imprisoned, first by her father, Ferdinand, and then by her son, the German Emperor, Charles the Fifth, for fifty long years. The persecutions of which she was made a victim, were commenced by her mother, Isabella, because Juana uttered heretical views about the persecutions of heretics (burning at the stake, etc.)

After Isabella's death, her father, Ferdinand, continued to maltreat the poor woman, in order to reign in her place. Finally her own son, Charles the Fifth, confined her in a dungeon, and permitted himself to abuse and torture her when she refused to take part in the divine service held in the prison. These facts have been brought to light by a German historian, M. Bergenroth, who derived them from the autograph letters of Charles the Fifth, hitherto kept secret in the archives of Simancas, and published them in Sybel's Historical Journal, Nov. 4, 1868.

On the 15th of January the following resolution, introduced in the Senate by Mr. Corbett, was agreed to: That the President direct the Secretary of the Treasury to detail an officer to select such prominent points upon the coasts of Oregon, Washington Territory and Alaska, as in his judgment may be necessary, for light house purposes, in view of the future commercial necessity of the Pacific coast, and to reserve the same for the exclusive use of the United States.

It is reported that Surratt has in course of preparation for the press a complete history of his wanderings during his efforts to avoid the Government detectives and escape arrest, and that he will divulge everything he knows bearing in any way upon the parties concerned in the assassination of President Lincoln.

OPPOSITION LINE OF STEAMERS.—A private letter from San Francisco says that a strong and well regulated Steamship company was formed in that city for the pur*pose of running a line of steamers regularly between San Francisco* and Portland. The steamers are known to be suitable for the [illegible] trade and are noted for good speed and splendid passenger accommodation. The people of Oregon will have an opportunity of showing whether they are willing to patronize good and staunch steamers at a reasonable price for freight and passage, as it will depend on the patronage these steamers will receive whether they will remain in our waters or not.
